Extract of a ettter received from S. J. Carroll.

BALTIMORE, January 10th, 1851.

WM. H. LIPPITT, Esq.—Dear Sir:—I have no hesitation in saying that your Specific is one of the best Medicines extant for Dysentery, Diarrhwa, &c. You possibly may recollect my case; if it has escaped your memory I will give you briefly the facts. I had tried every thing that I had seen used, but with little success. And after using enough to start twenty-five Homeopathic M. D's., I began to despair, when you kindly offered me your invaluable Medicine, which cured me effectually.

S. J. CARROLL.

20 A TURPENTINE FARM, containing forty-eight for hundred Acres of anely Timbered land, situate on Warcamaw river, near the bead of navigation—but accessible at all seasons of the year to small vyssels and flat-boats. Three thousand acres of the above lands have been boxed and worked for threy years. On the premises are a dwelling house, and all necessary out-buildings. There are thre hundred acres of cleared land under fence, well adapted to the staple productions of the Souch. Also, a CAPITAL MILL SEAT, with a mill frame ready for raising, convenient to an abundance of Timber. In addition to all these advantages, the range for stock is unsurpassed in this section of country; and its nearness to as good a turpentine market as the State affords, enhances the value of thit location so well adapted to the vicinity of a rapidly improving community.

For terms, apply to the undersigned at Conwayboro', S. C., where all applications, (post paid.) will meet with prompt attention.

MUCH-TOO-LATE GENERAL SCOTT.

My very dear and much-loved General Scott,
I congratulate you on your happy lot,
In having missed, in Presidential question,
The wretched fate of a political election.
I tried it once, and know full well its trials:
If all the wrath contained in all the phials
Of all the gods were dashed upon your head,
'Twere bliss, to being by nose and party led!
Soldiers are we, admitted henest, brateBetter that repute come with yan to the graveShoulder your crutches, when the day is done,
And show your youngsters how the fights were won,

At lack of statesman's knowledge and political.

Statesmen are not, we know, by intuition made—Like soldiers, General, they must learn their trade. We learned ours on the well-fought field,

And taught our friends to know "we never yield?"

Stick to the shop, old boy!—I wish I'd done it!

My short reign was over ere ['d scarce begun it.

Short as it was, I learned this obvious truth,

That I was something older than in youth.

Short as it was, I learned this obvious truth,

The cares of office shattered my old frame—
I left my country but my soldier's name.
Do you, dear General, leave the same bequest—

A correspondent of the New-York Herald, writing from Concord, New Hampshire, thus describes the personal appearance of the President elect :

"I have had the pleasure of several little interviews with General Pierce. He is a man of mark, a man of education, a man of accomplishments in the ways of the world; a shrewd politician, and of broad and comprehensive views as a statesman. His face is ex-pressive and genial and intelligent. He is affable and pleasing in his manners, modest and unpresuming, yet cool and self-possessed in a remarkable degree. He evidently feels that he has not yet been tried to the measure of his capacities; and, what is better, he has the power involuntarily of convincing you of the fact. ently, and correctly : but he keeps his own counsels

> "In person he is about five feet nine inches high. straight, and slenderly built. He has not that breadth of shoulders, nor that depth of chest, indicating the most vigorous constitution. His complexion, too, is pale, and his face thin, excepting the extraordinary expansion of his lower jaw; but he is one of that wirey, active class of men, all muscle and nerve, and capable of all sorts of hardships and endurance. Fre-mont, who has sustained the most incredible trials of starvation, and cold, and snow, in the depth of winter. among the inhospitable peaks and dreary defiles of the Rocky mountains, and the Sierra Neveda, is one of the same sort—spare and delicate, but elastic, and muscular, and tough, and hardy as Kit Carson. James K. Polk, who could ride on horse-back sixty miles a day, in the middle of July, and make three or four stump speeches of a quarter of an hour each, was of the same spare construction. So was Marion; so was Napoleon in his prime; so was Wellington; so was Horatio Nelson; so was Jefferson; so was Old Hickory, and so was Harry Clay. Gen. Pierce b precedents in the greatest abundance to make a merit > of being neither a Falstaff nor a Hercules." Louis Napoleon .- The N. Y. Courier & Enquirer thinks that the world has been greatly mistaken in the character of Louis Napoleon, and that the world is beginning to find it out. In the course of its remarks, the Courier says:

"It so happened, that when in the winter of 1836 he landed in this city from Brazil, where he had been exiled by Louis Philipe, we were the first ac-quaintance he made in the country; and his first vening in the United States was spent at our table, in company with Gen. Scott and other guests. This circumstance was the cause of our seeing much of him while in this country; and we subsequently saw a great deal of him in London. The result of our intercourse was a conviction that he was a man of far greater talent than the world gave him credit for, and that considering the peculiar character of the French people, it was impossible to predict his future. There was one man in England, however, who foresaw and predicted the future of Louis Na-poleon; and that man was the late Sir Robert Peel. He saw more of the exile than any of the statesmen of England; and he not only declared him to be a man of extraordinary talent, but boldly predicted that if he lived, 'he would inevitably be at the head of the French nation." The Courier goes on to state its opinion that there is great danger in the future to England, of an invasion by France, and to show that the creation of the Empire is with the full sanction of Russia and Austria, although they pretend to deprecate it.

Our readers are aware that Madame Souting invited the clergy of Boston to a rehearsal, some of them making scruples about attending a full concert.—
The following touching scene took place, and explains itself: Between the parts, the Rev. Mr. Barnard requested the audience to retain their seats on the conclusion of the rehearsal, when the Rev. Dr. Sharp ascended the platform, and in a most feeling and appropriate address, thanked Madame Sontag on the behalf of all present, for the gratification which had been afforded them.

He reviewed the circumstances under which this in fact full concert had been given, eulogizing, in glowing terms that kindness of heart which had prompted Madame Sontag to minister to the pleasure of those who were precluded from attending on other occasions, and concluded by invoking the protection and blessing of Providence on her, and here here, with the hope that she might be permitted to mingle her voice with the scraphs hereafter, in praise of Him who gave it.

The critice audience were visibly affected by this address. There was scarcely an eye to which the unbidden tear did not rise, whilst the calm and impressive language of the Rev. Doctor fell on their ears, and his aged appearance and venerable sin-plicity give the undeniable stamp of truth to all he uttered. Madame Sontag could not restrain her emotion—her tears fell fast—and the only utterance she could find for thanks, was by taking both the Rev. Doctor's hands in her own, and for several mo-

A little girl from Warren street chapel then advanced, and presented her with a boquet, bearing an inscription, whom she at once stooped and kissed—This act at once affording the audience relief, in giving vent to the applause they had been long anxious to bestow. Long after Madame Sontag had retired to the waiting room her emotion continued, and she observed, "Oh, that good clergyman—never has my heart been so touched before. How can I thank him and all these kind friends?" And on his being introduced, she again personally expressed her feelings to him. The Rev. Mr. Barnard also announced that two Bibles—the one Protestant, the other Catholic—would be presented to Madame Sontag, and awaited the signatures of the clergy. A boquet was also presented to little Paul Julien by the school children, inscribed "God bless and keep thee!"

"It is the opinion of this House that the improved condition of the country, and especially the indus-trial classes, is mainly the result of the recent legislation, which has established the principle of unre-stricted competition, and has abolished the taxes imposed for the purpose of protection. That, it is the opinion of this House that this policy followed, maintained, and prudently extended, will best enable the ople. That this take into its considerations any measure consistent with these principles, which—in pursuance of her Majesty's speech made before them-may be offered by her Majesty's ministers."

The Speaker of the Senate, Mr. Edwards, a Demo-orat, declined to vote. He might have passed the bill; and either one of the above-named Whigs might have done the same. The responsibility rests therefore, on these sixteen Senators.

Had it passed, the people would have voted directly on the question at the polls; but having failed, the bill has been again started in the Commons and Senate. If it should pass this session by the three fifths vote, it will then stand for a twothirds vote in the next Assembly; but if it should fail, the measure will have been thrown back four years - that is, it will require two sessions of the Asembly to perfect it and submit it to the people.

Messrs. Eure, Alford, Godwin, Simons, Stiles and Watters, who voted for the bill on its passage thro' the Commons on the 19th of last month, voted against it on Wednesday last. Several members were absent on the last vote. and some of the Whigs declined to vote. Ten Whigs voted for the bill on Wednesday last, and fifty-four Democrats. We are determined that the people of the State shall know the men who are opposed to this fundamental principle of free government; and hence we have spread out the names. There they are! Such a vote-a vote against making free white men equal at the ballot-box—would look much better on the journals of the British or Canadian Parliament than t does here, in Republican North Carolina. We hope the constituents of these men will file this article away for future use. The struggle for this great measure will never cease until it triumphs; and the longer it is delayed the more profound and overwhelming will be the popular indignation a-gainst its opponents. Indeed, the people would be untrue to themselves and to their posterity, if they should fail to call to a reckoning and to repudiate now and hereafter, those who have thus trampled down a great principle and defied their will.

CURE FOR THE CROUP .- Dr. Forbes, of Boston, relates, in a late number of the Medical Journal, a case right of way. in which a severe attack of croup was cured by the application of sponges wrung out of hot water to the throat, together with water treatment, which he describes as follows:

" Soon after making the first application of sponges to the throat, I wrapped the child in a wooler blanket, wrung out in warm water, as a substitute for a warm bath, and gave twenty drops of the wine of antimony in a little sweetened water, which she wallowed with difficulty. I persevered in the application of the hot moist sponges for an hour, when the child was so much relieved that I ventured to ties have been sold, which have been purchased by eave it.

"These applications were continued through the night, and in the morning the child was well."

It will never do to trifle with this terrible disease The quicker the remedies are applied the better.— Instead of antimony, we would recommend small quantities of alum water given every ten or fifteen minutes until the child vomits.—Balt. Sun.

A Horrid Murder Letters were received here last week, from Hyde, Tyrrell and Beaufort Counties, stating, that Washington Carroway, a citizen of Hyde County, of some fif-y years of age, and many years a Baptist Preacher, lately, on some frivolous pretext, knocked his wife down with a chair, and beat her with it until the chair broke to pieces, and then seized a large stick and con-tinued to beat her, until a man named Lassiter, who poarded in the house, interfered to prevent her being murdered. Whereupon Carroway took his gun to shoo Lassiter; but he disarmed him and left the house.

A few days afterwards, say on the 15th of last month, Lassiter chanced to go by the house, which stood near the Public road, when Carrowap, him pass, took his gun and ran through his field to Suffrage bill having been offered again, and put upon its first reading for a three-fifths vote, it was rejected, the following Whigs voting against it:

INVESTMENTS IN MANUFACTURES .- The Boston

Journal says:

The current of investment is now turning strongly towards factory stocks, which are beginning to hold out brilliant prospects in the way of dividends. A very important change in several branches of the manufacturing business has been going on during the last six months. The demand for domestic goods has increased greatly, and prices have advanced sufficiently to yield handsome profits. This fact, which is beginning to be realized in the community, furnishes a key to the present movements in factory shares. The truth is, that a large unjority of our manufacturing stocks are now selling at prices much below their real value, as can be easily de onstrated by reference to facts and figures. The Bay State Mills, for example, held in the market at from $800 to $900 per, share, or about ten per cent below the par value, will earn for the current business year full ten per cent, net, and pay a dividend in Febuary next of not less than six per cent. or $60 per share. while for the ensuing year the business prospects of the concern are decidedly better.

The mills are stocked with more than a year's supply of wool, the advance on which alone, comaring the cost with prices now ruling, would be about equal to the respectable sum of $200,000. The Amoskeag Manufacturing Company shares, with the prospect of a semi-annual dividend in February, of ve or six per cent, are selling at but ten per cent. advance, while Hamilton and Massachusetts, with probable dividends of four per cent, nearly at hand, are bringing only about par value. The same re--certainly most brilliant and encouraging.

HUMILIATING.-The Cuban ruler declared that the United States mail steamer should not enter the port of Havana, with Purser Smith on board, unless he would state in writing that he was not guilty of certain charges. Smith made the required statement, yet our government was so much more careful of the feelings of the Cuban ru'er than he was himself, that they did all in their power to prevent Smith from going there, His Excellency the Minister of Her Majesty the demanded. They withheld the mails from the steam-Queen of Spain at Washington, having directed to er, and the President wrote a letter denouncing her me a note through his Excellency the American Secretary of State, accompanied by an affidavit of Mr. W. Smith, the Purser of the Crescent City, in which he disavows having at any time been the bearer of willing to receive him as before the difficulty! What any communication colculated to injure this Governant a humiliating position has our government thus placed ment, and asserts himself innocent of the charges itself in! How disgraceful must its course appear in the eyes of the whole world; while thus fighting a battle against our own citizens for Spain, after Spain had become satisfied to give up the contest and back out from her position! Well is it for our country that the days of our present rulers are numbered and so soon to expire. - New Hampshire Patriot.

When the deep midright bell
Tolling a passing knell,
Sounds o'er the hill's dark brow;

Of every rising gale,
Of every wave's sad wail,
We ask—Their voice art thou?

Too distant for our ear,
Their souls in secrecy
Whisper to us more near.
Around the slumb'ring heart,
Crowding from every part,
Comes back their memory—
Like dry leaves from the plain
Driven by storms again,
Back to the parent tree.

From the land of shadows bends

Before us, low in death.

The infaut at the breast
From its mother's bosom torn,
To its icy bed of rest.
From its little cradle borne!
All that we loved and mourn,
Who to that silent bourne

Who to that shout bourne
Bear away part of us,
From the dust murmuring ery—
Ye who behold the sky,
Do ye still remember us?

More Ald Asked. When Congress stepped forward to give the assistance asked for by the Collins Line of steamers, over and above, and double the amount provided for by their contract, we felt certain that a precedent was established of a dangerous character, and that begging for extra compensation, and illegal gratuities, would become a system with all the employees of the Government. We now see that this is becoming verified in the case of the Havre steamers. They, too, are asking an additional sum from the Government, asserting that unless they get it the line must be discontinued.

> VEGETABLE MILK, RUM, SOAP, AND PHYSIC .cording to Mr. E. A. Hopkins, some time United States Consul in Paraguay, that region, so far as its natural features and productions are concerned, is emphatically a "great country. Imprimis, it boasts of a vegetable cow—the palo de leche, or milk tree, which yields a fluid so nearly akin to milk, that it is difficult to distinguish the ligneous juice from the bovine secretion. Secondly, it rejoices in a tree called the palo de borracho, or drunken tree-a vegetable distillery, or sylvan grog-shop, from which Nature pours a perpetual stream of liquor without charging a cent for it. The milk tree and the rum tree coet a milk punch. Nature furnishes not only the shells of the nuts make excellent chalices. If you wish to take your toddy through a tube, after the manner of young suckers in Christian oities, you have only to break a few joints from a slim bamboo, and pump away. There is no excuse for being dirty in Paraguay, as the river of that name and its tribularies supply plenty of water, while the supposition of the south coast of sapouica, or soap nut, growing upon their banks, is fully equal to "old brown Windsor" for parifying purposes. There is only one drawback upon all these comforts and luxuries—the woods are full of snakes. But provident nature has placed the anti-dote beside the poison. unble in tracing the progress of different portions of the country. The facts developed will show how far one section has impressed its own characteristics and peculiar customs on others. It is found that out of 17,736.791 free inhabitants, 4,116,792 have migrated and settled beyond the States of their birth.—
Three hundred and thirty-five thousand natives of Virginia, equal to 26 per cent. of the whole, have found homes outside of her own borders. South Carolina has sent forth 163,355, which is 36 per cent. of all citizens of that State living in the United States at the date of the census, and forms the astonishing proportion of 58 per cent. of those remaining in the State of their nativity. North Carolina has lost 261,575 free inhabitants, equal to 31 per cent. by emigration. Among the Northern States, Vermont and Connecticut have contributed most largely to the settlement of other parts of the country. Their proportion, about 25 per cent of their natives, would perhaps exceed that of either of the Southern States already mentioned, were the number of slaves in the latter admitted as an element of the calculation.
